CALENDAR DESCRIPTION: This course involves studies in literatures in English from around the world. Instruction will include essay writing skills.

CREDIT/CONTACT HOURS: 3 credits / 3 hours per week

DELIVERY MODE(S): The course work includes lecture, class discussion, in-class quizzes, writing instruction and assignments.

COURSE OBJECTIVES: This course offers a survey of writings from around the world. Its aim is not to discuss global English literatures in their totality; rather, this course is designed to allow us to gain a sense of the richness and variety of global English literatures; at the same time, we will also come to appreciate literature's ability to make connections across geographical and historical distances.

LEARNING OUTCOMES: After taking this course, the successfully participating students will demonstrate the following:

- Knowledge of, and the ability to use, a critical vocabulary suited to the discussion of English literature
- Knowledge of a range of literary genres and an ability to classify literary works and authors according to place and time
- An understanding of the interrelation of text and context in the production and consumption of literary texts
- Skills crucial to effective college-level essay composition, from planning, to writing, to revision
- The ability to perform secondary research as well as the ability to incorporate research effectively into writing assignments

TRANSFERABILITY: UA, UC, UL, AU, GMU, King's UC

 Grade of D or D+ may not be acceptable for transfer to other post-secondary institutions. Students are cautioned that it is their responsibility to contact the receiving institutions to ensure transferability

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES:

1. Written assignments are to be submitted directly to me as a hard copy. I will not accept electronic copies. It is the student's responsibility to retain a copy of ALL assignments submitted for grading; in the unlikely event of theft or loss, a duplicate copy must be available upon request.

2. Written assignments are to be submitted on time. This means that they are due before the beginning of class. Late assignments will incur a penalty of 3% per day, with weekends counting as one day. Assignments more than one week late forfeit the right to full commentary.

3. Extensions will not be granted for written assignments except in extenuating circumstances. Documentation will be required.

4. Students are expected to attend all classes; in a course for which we meet once a week, each class will cover a considerable amount of material, and, as such, any student who misses a class will need to work hard to catch up. Unexcused absences will negatively affect the participation component of a student's grade and could result in a failing grade for that component of a student's final mark. If a student misses a class for legitimate reasons, he or she should take the appropriate steps – borrowing notes from a classmate, scheduling time with the instructor to ask specific questions about the week's discussion, etc. – to keep up with the rest of the class.

5. Participation is not a mere formality but a vital part of the college learning experience. By responding to and posing questions, students become active participants in their own educational development. That said, I am aware that not all students will feel equally comfortable speaking in front of their peers; this difference in temperament need not result in any student receiving a lower grade for participation as there are multiple ways in which students should feel free to participate beyond the classroom. These include, but are not limited to, email conversations with me regarding the readings, lectures, or discussions, or coming to office hours to continue an in-class discussion.

Students are also highly encouraged to make use of Moodle as a forum for continuing the discussion beyond the classroom. Please note that participation does not mean mere physical attendance. Simply showing up for class is not the same thing as contributing to the educational experience of one's peers.

6. Students are required to check the Moodle site for this course before each class to stay informed concerning course updates and announcements.

7. Cellphones are to be turned off and kept out of sight during class time. Students who text while the instructor and/or other students are speaking will lose marks for participation.

8. The midterm is scheduled for October 18. I will not make arrangements for an alternate date for students to write the midterm except in extenuating circumstances. I will require documentation if you wish to write the midterm on an alternate date,

9. The registrar will schedule a final exam for this course sometime during the semester. Students should avoid making travel plans for the end of semester until after the exam schedule is released. Exams will not be rescheduled except in extenuating circumstances. Documentation will be required for any student wishing to write the final exam on an alternate date.
