It is strongly recommended that students complete EN 1131 before taking EN 1132. Students may take EN 1000, EN 1010, EN 1011 and EN 1012, EN 1111 and EN 1112, or EN 1131 and EN 1132 to fulfil requirements for most programs that require 6 credits of first-year (junior) English. Normally, no more than 6 credits of first year English or equivalent may be taken for credit.

Course Description:

This course will challenge and question the applications of notions such as “globalization,” “multiculturalism”, and the “global community” to studies of world literature in English. Students will examine literature from diverse countries in a multiple genres including drama, fiction and nonfiction prose, poetry, and cultural studies, and will also examine how “global” literature is produced within North America. As such, we will find ourselves at the centre of historical and current conversations and debates focusing on race, gender, culture, class, and sexual orientation. We will also read literary texts alongside non-literary ones such as scholarly writings, film, popular culture, art, and music, and news articles in an effort to open up new perspectives, questions, and directions regarding change in the world(s) in which we live.

Classes will be largely discussion oriented, although lectures, student presentations, and writing instruction and assignments will also comprise this course.

REQUIRED TEXTS

In addition to the texts below, you will be directed to obtain some of the required readings through the internet. It is your responsibility to make copies of these and bring them to class on the assigned day.

Damrosch, David et al., eds. The Longman Anthology of World Literature. Volume F: The Twentieth Century.

Hacker, Diana. A Canadian Writer's Reference.

Mootoo, Shani. Cereus Blooms at Night.

Robinson, Edith. Monkey Beach .

Satrapa, Marjane. Persepolis 2: The Story of a Return.

I prefer you use the editions of the books on sale at the Bookstore. If, however, you use other editions, please make certain that they are all unabridged (that no changes have been made to the original text).

Notes:

1. This course outline should be considered a guideline only. Time constraints and other unforeseen factors may require that some of the above topics be omitted or covered in less detail than indicated.
2. Cellular phones MUST be turned off during classes.
3. Work submitted for evaluation must be typed and double-spaced.
4. All work must be submitted personally to me. It is the student's responsibility to retain a photocopy or computer back-up copy of ALL assignments submitted for grading; in the event of loss or theft, a duplicate copy is required.
5. Late assignments will not be accepted unless arrangements for late submissions have been made with me at least two days prior to the date on which the assignment is due.
6. Attendance: You are expected to attend all classes and are responsible for obtaining information given in classes you miss. You must check to make sure you received all handouts as this material may be covered on exams as well. I am not able to keep track of who did not receive handouts so be responsible for yourself.
7. Attendance Policy: You are allowed two unexcused absences. These absences require no explanation on your part—they are “freebies.” An excused absence needs to be cleared with me and usually requires documentation. Any unexcused absences beyond two will lower your grade, and your participation grade will be affected.
8. Email messages: Feel free to send me email messages regarding course related matters. Because of the large number of emails I receive daily, please allow approx. 48 hours for a reply, and please follow these requirements:
 - Please include your name, course, and section number in the message as this is not always clear from your email address.
 - Remember that your communications with me are occurring in an academic environment. Messages can be written informally—but do pay attention to correct grammar and spelling (especially since you are corresponding with an English professor!)
9. Email attachments: Should you need to send me an assignment as an attachment, please follow these requirements:
 - I can only open attachments if these are sent as a Word document (.doc) or in Rich Text Format (.rtf).
 - I will only open attachments if these are accompanied by a note from you in the email message indicating the name of the assignment, its length, and its formatting. I will not open attachments simply sent without a note from you.
 - I will always inform you upon successful receipt of an attachment.

10. Students are advised to read the 2006/2007 Calendar for the rules regarding Registration, Withdrawals, Academic Misconduct including plagiarism, and Appeals.
11. The instructor reserves the right to use electronic plagiarism detection services.
12. Please see the College Policy on plagiarism under “Academic Conduct” in the Calendar. Plagiarism is never allowed. Plagiarism includes representing the ideas or words of another person as your own without proper acknowledgment and extends to the work of other students, the Internet, books, magazines, journals, TV shows, films, etc. This would not only include direct copying without citing the source but paraphrasing as well. You may not submit work for this class for evaluation you have submitted in other classes.
13. Class records related to this course will be maintained for one year after the last day of classes for the course. These records will then be destroyed in a secure manner.
