COURSE OBJECTIVES: This course is an introduction to, and survey of, music and related culture from several continents around the world. A brief introduction to music theory and terminology will provide some tools to discuss musical traditions. Case studies of musical cultures and practices from several continents will provide us with material to discuss culture, tradition, ritual, ethnocentrism, and more.

LEARNING OUTCOMES: Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to describe and discuss several of our planet's musical traditions, and use the cultural contexts of different musical practices to gain a better awareness of their own cultural practices. Students will be able to overcome ethnocentrism through greater awareness of human traditions. Students will have developed listening skills to appreciate and analyze music, to identify instruments, forms, genres, and other aspects of musical practice, and be able to explain why much of the value of any music is not necessarily sonic.
